Document title	Bakenye SACCO Member User Guide
Version	2.0
Publication date	25 September 2026
Intended audience	Registered members of Bakenye Unity and Development SACCO
Purpose	To show members how to sign in to the SACCO system and read their own savings, shares, loan and transaction records safely and correctly.
Applies to	The version of the SACCO system carrying the 2026 business-rule change, verified on 25 September 2026.
Prepared by	Documentation review of the live application

Revision history

Version	Date	Change	By
1.0	24 September 2026	First issue. Every screen and step in this guide was checked against the working system before publication.	Documentation review
1.1	24 September 2026	Reissued after corrections to the system. My Guarantees now names the borrower, so the warning that it could not has been removed and the screen re-photographed.	Documentation review
2.0	25 September 2026	Reissued for the 2026 business-rule change. Joining costs UGX 20,000. Monthly savings are open: you save any amount you choose, there is no target, no saver category, and a month you do not save in is not owed. One share costs UGX 10,000 and you may buy as many as you like. The savings, shares and profile screens were rewritten and re-photographed.	Documentation review

About this guide

This guide describes what the Bakenye SACCO system actually does today. Every picture in it is a photograph of a real screen from the system, taken on a test copy that holds made-up members and made-up money, so that no real member's private information appears anywhere in this book.

The names, telephone numbers and amounts you will see in the pictures — Musoke John, BND26006, UGX 600,000 and so on — are examples only. Your own screen will show your own details. Most of the pictures are taken from one example account, Musoke John's; the pictures of the Guarantees screen are taken from a second example account, Nakabugo Christine's, because she is the one who has agreed to back other members' loans.

> If something in this guide does not match your screen
>
> The SACCO may have updated the system since this guide was printed. Where the guide and the screen disagree, the screen is right. Please tell SACCO staff, so the guide can be corrected.

What this guide does not cover

- Anything only SACCO staff can do. Recording payments, registering members and approving loans are staff tasks, and they are described in the separate Staff & Administrator Manual.
- SACCO policy — interest rates, fees, savings amounts and deadlines are decided by the SACCO and set up in the system by management. This guide shows you where to read them on your own screen; it does not state them as rules.

1. Introduction

The Bakenye SACCO system is the SACCO's record of your money, and it lets you look at that record yourself, on your own phone, at any hour.

What the system is

Everything the SACCO holds for you — what you have saved, the shares you own, any loan you are repaying, and every payment that has been recorded against your name — is kept in one place. The member portal is your window on to that record.

Why the SACCO uses it

- You can check for yourself. You no longer have to come to the office simply to ask what your balance is.
- Nothing is lost. Every payment carries its own reference number and stays on your record permanently.
- Mistakes can be found. If a payment you made is missing, you can see that it is missing and report it while the evidence is still fresh.

Who can use the member portal

Any registered member of Bakenye Unity and Development SACCO whom the office has given a login. Your membership must be Active. If your membership has been suspended, made inactive or archived, the system will tell you so when you try to sign in, and you will need to speak to SACCO staff.

What you can and cannot do

You can	You cannot
See your savings balance and history	Record a payment yourself
See the shares you own and what they are worth	Buy shares inside the app
See your loan, its balance and its repayment schedule	Change your own name, phone number or member number
Apply for a loan, if the SACCO has this switched on for members	Approve or disburse a loan
Read and print your statement	See another member’s records
Change your own password	Undo or correct a transaction

> Why you cannot record your own payments
>
> The system has no connection to MTN, Airtel or any bank. It cannot see that money has arrived. A member of staff checks the money, then records it. That is what protects every member’s balance from being changed by somebody simply typing a number in.

Look after your login

Your password is yours alone. No member of SACCO staff will ever ask you for it, and no member of staff can see it. If you tell somebody your password, they can see everything about your money.

2. What you need before you start

You need	Detail
A phone, tablet or computer	Any smartphone that can open websites will do. The system was built for ordinary Android phones and works on a small screen.
An internet connection	Mobile data or Wi-Fi. The pages are deliberately light, so they load on a slow connection.
A web browser	Google Chrome, Firefox, Samsung Internet, Safari or Microsoft Edge.
The web address of the SACCO system	Ask at the SACCO office. It is the same address for everyone.
A registered, active membership	You must already be a registered member.
Your login	Your member number (for example BND26006) or the phone number the SACCO holds for you, plus a password.

If you do not have a login yet

Only SACCO staff can create a member login. Go to the SACCO office and take your National ID. Staff will check who you are, create the login and give you a temporary password — four letters, a dash and four numbers, such as KQPM-4827. The temporary password is shown to the officer once and handed to you; it is not written down anywhere afterwards.

> The temporary password only lets you in once
>
> The first time you sign in with it, the system will stop and ask you to choose a password of your own. Until you do, nothing else will open. This is deliberate: it means the password you actually use is one nobody at the SACCO has ever seen.

Add it to your home screen

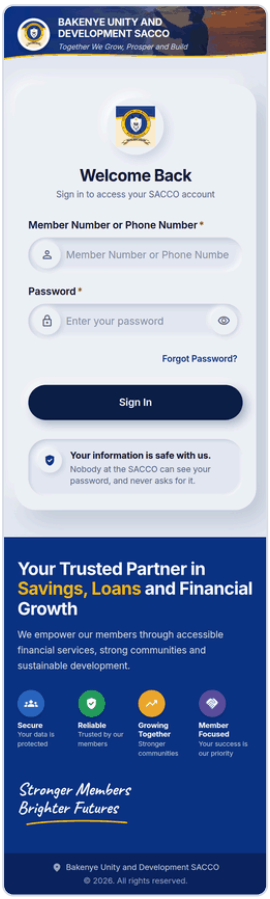

The system can be added to your phone's home screen like an app, so you do not have to type the address every time. In Chrome, open the address, tap the menu (⋮) and choose Add to Home screen.

3. Signing in and signing out

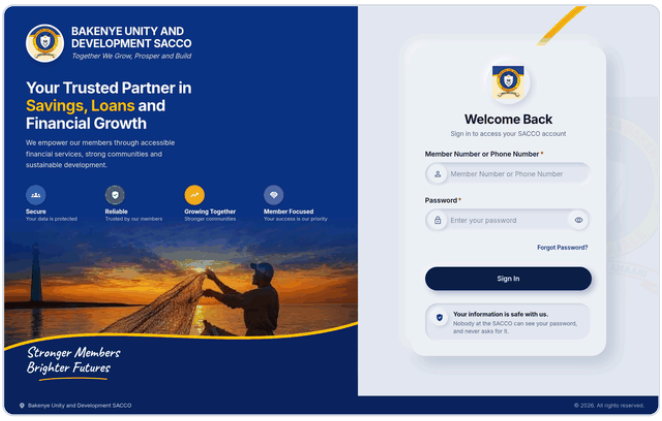

There is one sign-in form for everybody — members and staff alike. You do not have to say which you are; the system works it out from your account.

1 Open the SACCO web address

Type the address into your browser. The sign-in screen appears. On a phone the form comes first, so the Sign In button is on screen without scrolling.

Screenshot 1. The sign-in screen on a phone.

Screenshot 2. The same screen on a computer.

2 Type your member number or phone number

In the first box, Member Number or Phone Number, type either:

- your member number, for example BND26006 — small letters are fine; or
- the phone number the SACCO holds for you, for example 0772 100 006. Spaces do not matter, and +256772100006 works just as well.

What you should see: the number you typed, in the box.

3 Type your password

In the second box, type your password. Tap the eye symbol at the right of the box if you want to check what you have typed before you continue.

4 Press Sign In

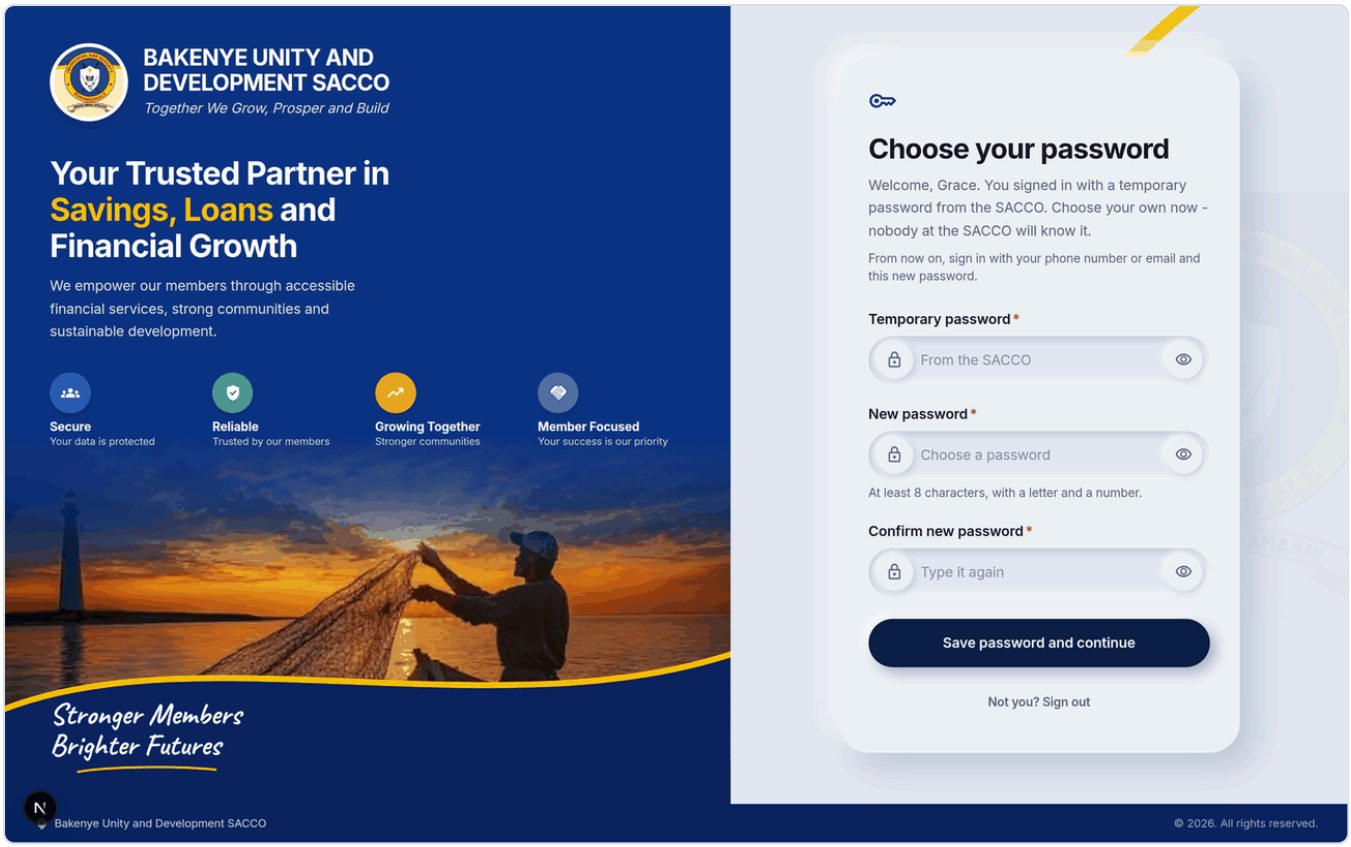

What you should see: your own dashboard, with your name at the top.

Screenshot 3. The member dashboard after a successful sign-in.

The first time: choosing your own password

If you signed in with a temporary password from the office, the system will not go to your dashboard. It will show Choose your password instead.

Screenshot 4. The "Choose your password" screen, shown once, at first sign-in.

1. Temporary password — type the one the office gave you.
2. New password — choose your own. It must be at least eight characters long and contain both a letter and a number.
3. Confirm new password — type the same thing again.
4. Press Save password and continue.

> Choosing a password that is easy for you and hard for others
>
> Avoid your own phone number, your date of birth, or 12345678. A short phrase with a number in it — something only you would think of — is both easier to remember and much harder to guess.

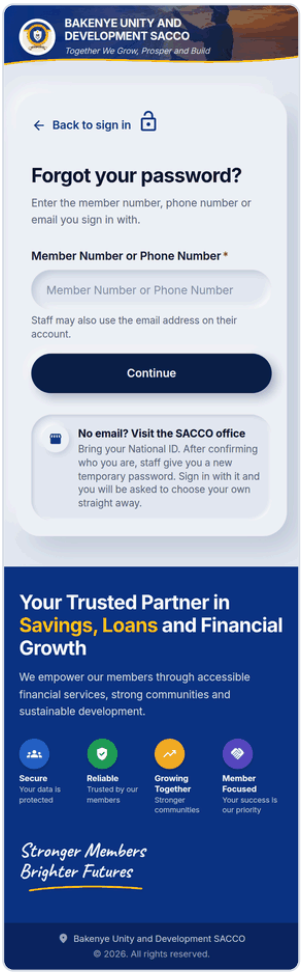

If you cannot sign in

What the screen says	What it usually means	What to do
Invalid login credentials	The member number, phone number or password does not match an account. The system gives the same message either way, on purpose, so that nobody can use it to find out whether a number exists.	Check for typing mistakes. If you still cannot get in, use Forgot Password? or visit the office.
Too many unsuccessful attempts…	Sign-in has been paused for a few minutes after several wrong tries.	Wait the number of minutes the message gives, then try again. Nothing has been locked permanently.

What the screen says	What it usually means	What to do
Your account is currently suspended	Your membership has been suspended.	Speak to SACCO administration.
Your account is currently unavailable	The membership is inactive or archived, or the login has been switched off.	Speak to SACCO administration.
Unable to sign in right now	The system could not be reached.	Check your internet connection and try again in a few minutes.

Forgotten password

Press Forgot Password? on the sign-in screen.

Screenshot 5. The forgotten-password screen.

If the SACCO holds an email address for you, a reset link is sent to it. Most members do not have one on the SACCO's record. In that case the answer is the same as for a lost password anywhere: go to the SACCO office with your National ID. Staff will check who you are and issue a new temporary password, and your old password stops working immediately.

Signing out

Tap More at the bottom of the screen, then Log Out at the foot of the list.

Screenshot 6. The More tab. Log Out is at the bottom.

> Always sign out on a shared phone or a computer at an internet café
>
> Closing the browser is not the same as signing out. If you do nothing for a while the system signs you out by itself, but do not rely on that.

4. Your dashboard

The dashboard is the first screen after you sign in. It answers the questions members ask most often, in the order they ask them.

Screenshot 7. The member dashboard. The figures shown are from a test account.

What each part means

On the screen	What it is telling you
Welcome, <name> with your member number and a status badge	Who the system thinks you are, and whether your membership is Active.
Total Savings (the large blue card)	Everything you have saved with the SACCO, less anything withdrawn. Shares are not counted here.
Shares	The value of the shares you own, and how many shares that is.
Loan Balance	What is still owed on your loan, including interest. It is shown in red because it is money you owe. If you have no loan, this shows zero.
Saved this month	What you have saved since the first of the month. Savings are open, so there is no target and nothing is owed.

On the screen	What it is telling you
Next Payment	The next loan installment: how much, and the date it falls due.
Quick Actions	Shortcuts to the screens you use most.
Recent activity	The last few payments recorded on your account.

Moving around

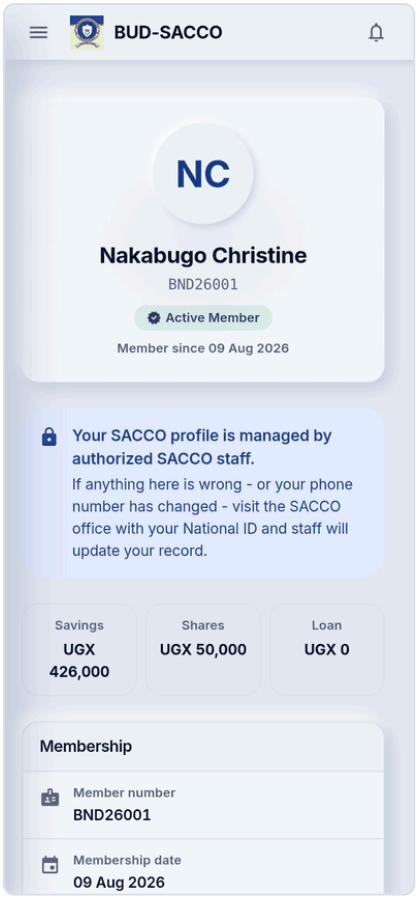

The five tabs along the bottom of the screen are the whole of the member portal:

Tab	What it opens
Home	This dashboard.
Savings	Your savings balance, what you saved this month, and your history.
Loans	Your loans, their balances and repayment history.
Transactions	Every payment recorded against your account.
More	Shares, statements, reports, guarantees, notifications, your profile and Log Out.

> This is your notifications. A small number on it means there are messages you have not read yet.

5. Your profile

Your profile is the SACCO's official record of who you are. You can read all of it; you can change only your password.

Screenshot 8. My Profile — the SACCO's record of you.

Screenshot 9. Reach it from More → My Profile.

What is on it

- Your name, member number, membership date and status.
- Your savings and shares totals, and your loan balance.
- Your telephone number and, if the SACCO holds one, your email address.

What you can change yourself

Detail	Who changes it
Password	You, from More → Password & Security.
Name	SACCO staff, at the office, on sight of your National ID.
Telephone number	SACCO staff, at the office.
Member number	Nobody. It is issued once and never changes.

Detail	Who changes it
Membership date	SACCO staff, and only to correct an error.
Membership status	SACCO management.

> Why you cannot edit your own record
>
> Your name, number and phone number are what the SACCO uses to match money to the right person. If a member could change them, a payment could be lost or credited to the wrong person. Every change staff make is recorded with the reason for it, so there is always a trail.

Changing your password

1. Tap More, then Password & Security.
2. Type your current password, then your new one twice.
3. Press the save button. You stay signed in; the next time you sign in, use the new password.

> Change your password at once if you think somebody else knows it
>
> You do not need to ask permission and you do not need to visit the office.

6. Your savings

The Savings tab shows what you have saved, what you have saved this month, and every payment the SACCO has recorded.

Monthly savings are open. You save any amount you choose, as often as you like. There is no monthly target, no saver category, and no penalty for a month in which you save nothing. A month you skip is simply a month you did not save — it is never recorded as a debt.

Screenshot 10. The Savings screen.

Reading the screen

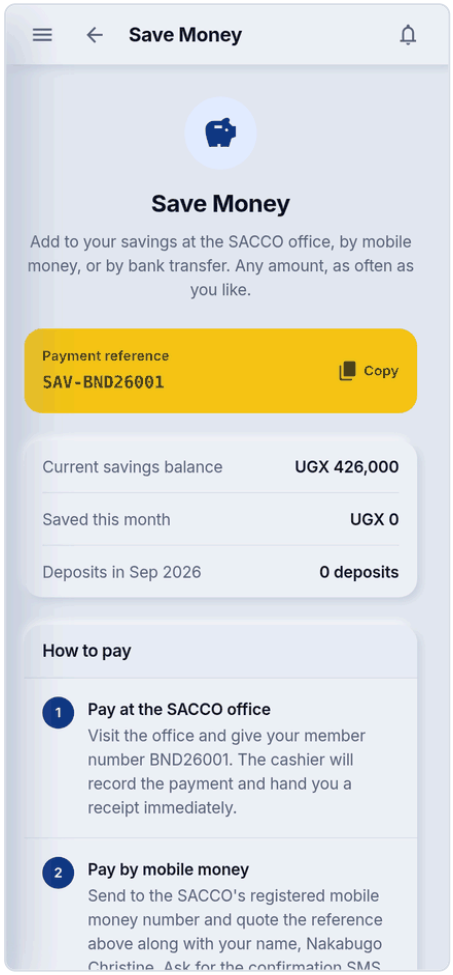

On the screen	What it means
Total Savings	Your savings balance today.
Save any amount, any time	A reminder of the rule: there is no monthly target, and a month you do not save is not owed.
This month	What you have saved since the first of the month, and how many separate deposits that was.
Shares	How many shares you own, what one costs today, and what your holding is worth.

On the screen	What it means
Savings by Month	Each month you have saved in, with the total for that month and the date of your last deposit that month.

> A month with nothing in it is not a debt
>
> Months you did not save in are simply not listed. Nothing is owed for them, no arrears are raised and no penalty is charged. This is the SACCO's rule, not a gap in the screen.

How to pay

Press Save Money. This screen does not take a payment. It tells you how to pay and gives you the payment reference to quote so the cashier can match your money to your account.

Screenshot 11. The Save Money screen: your balance, what you have saved this month, your payment reference, and how to pay.

Step	What to do
1	Note the payment reference shown on the screen (for example SAV-BND26006). Tap Copy to copy it.
2	Pay by whichever of the ways listed on the screen suits you — at the SACCO office, by mobile money to the SACCO merchant code, or by bank transfer.

Step	What to do
3	Keep the confirmation message or the receipt. If you paid by mobile money or bank, the reference in that message is what staff need.
4	A member of staff records the payment. Your balance changes when they do.

Paying does not update your balance by itself

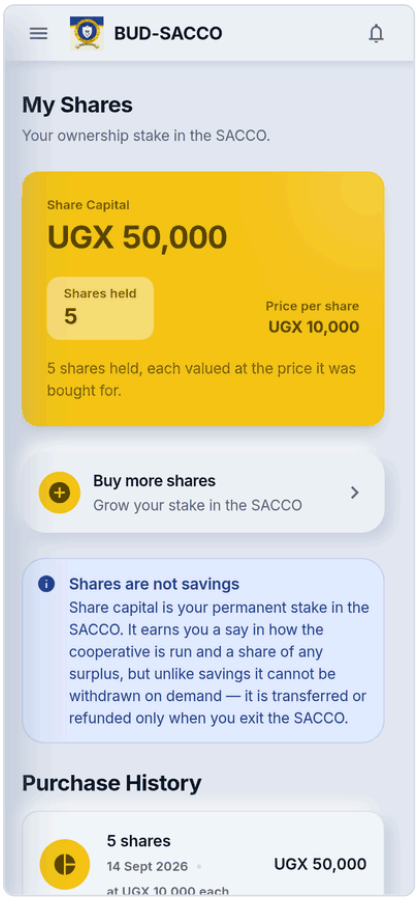

The SACCO system is not connected to MTN, Airtel or any bank, so it cannot see your payment arrive. A member of staff checks it and records it. If you paid at the counter this is immediate; if you paid by mobile money outside office hours, it will be recorded when the office next reconciles its merchant account.

If a payment is missing after a day or two

Open Transactions and check it really is not there, then go to the office with the mobile-money or bank confirmation message. The reference in that message is what lets staff find the money.

7. Your shares

Shares are your stake in the SACCO. They are kept entirely separately from your savings.

Screenshot 12. My Shares.

Screenshot 13. Buy Shares — instructions and your reference.

Reading the screen

On the screen	What it means
Share Capital	What the shares you hold are worth.
Shares held	How many whole shares you own. Shares are bought in whole units.
Price per share	What one share costs today — currently UGX 10,000.
Purchase history	Every share purchase recorded for you, with its date, number of shares and reference.

> One price, any number of shares
>
> Every share costs the same: UGX 10,000. There are no share categories, no required number and no deadline. You may buy one share or a hundred, whenever you choose. One share is UGX 10,000, five are UGX 50,000, twenty are UGX 200,000 and a hundred are UGX 1,000,000.

Buying shares

Buy Shares works exactly like Save Money: it shows the current share price, what different numbers of shares would cost, and the reference to quote. It does not take the payment. You pay, and a member of staff records the purchase. The SACCO’s own system works out the total from the number of shares and its own price, so the amount you are charged is never taken from a figure typed into a form.

8. Your loans

The Loans tab shows any loan you have — what you borrowed, what is left to pay, and every repayment recorded.

Screenshot 14. My Loans.

Screenshot 15. One loan in detail.

What the statuses mean

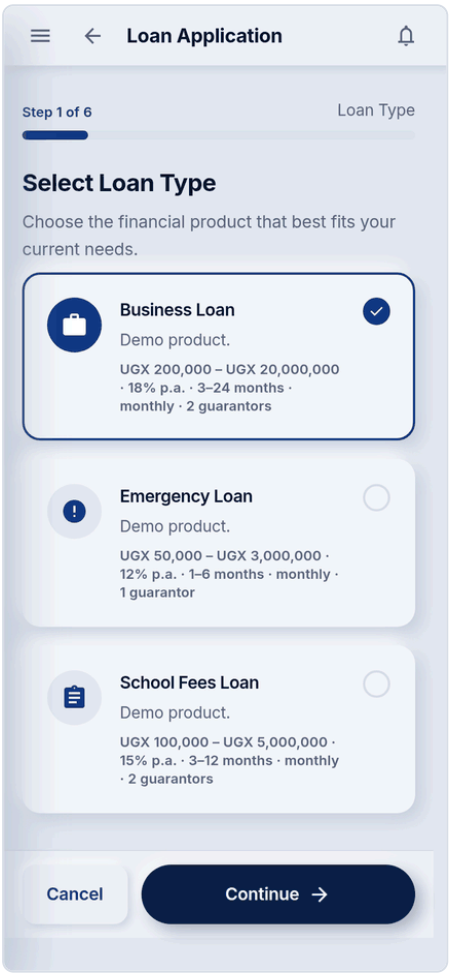

Status	What it means
Applied	You have applied. Nobody has looked at it yet.
Under review	A loan officer is assessing it.
Approved	It has been agreed but the money has not been handed over yet.
Disbursed / Active	The money has been given out and repayments are due.
Completed	Fully repaid. Nothing further is owed.
Rejected	The application was not approved.
Defaulted	Repayments are seriously behind. Speak to the SACCO.

Reading a loan

- Amount applied for — the sum you asked to borrow.
- Outstanding balance — what is still to be paid, interest included.
- Progress — how much of the total has been repaid so far.
- Repayment schedule — each installment, when it is due and whether it has been paid.
- Guarantors — the members who have agreed to stand for your loan.

Applying for a loan

If the SACCO has switched this on for members, Apply Loan appears among the quick actions on your dashboard.

Screenshot 16. Step 1 of the loan application: choosing the product. Each one shows its own terms.

The application has six steps, and the screen tells you which one you are on:

1. Loan type — choose the product. Each shows the smallest and largest amount, the interest rate, the term and how many guarantors it needs.
2. Amount and term — how much, and over how many months.
3. Purpose — what the money is for.

4. Guarantors — the members who will stand for you. You can search them by name or member number; you will see only their name and number.
5. Documents — what you will need to bring to the office.
6. Review and submit — check everything, then submit.

> You can go back at any step
>
> Nothing is submitted until the last step, so you can correct anything before you finish.

> One loan at a time
>
> The system will not accept a new application while you have a loan still running. If you try, it tells you so rather than letting you fill the whole form in first.

> Applying is not the same as being approved
>
> Submitting an application starts the process. A loan officer assesses it, and a manager approves and disburses it. You can follow the progress on this screen, and the system will notify you of the decision.

If the Apply Loan option does not appear, loan applications are handled at the office in your SACCO. Go to the office; a loan officer will take the application with you.

9. Loan repayments

Repayments are recorded by SACCO staff, exactly like savings. This screen tells you what to pay, when, and what to quote.

Screenshot 17. Repay Loan: the next installment, your payment reference and how to pay.

On the screen	What it means
Amount to pay	The next installment due, or the overdue amount if you are behind.
Payment reference	What to quote so the cashier can match your money to this loan.
Outstanding balance	Everything still owed on the loan.
Next due date	When the next installment is expected.

How a repayment is worked out

When staff record your repayment, the system puts the money towards the interest first and then the principal, and it updates the schedule and the balance itself. You do not have to work anything out.

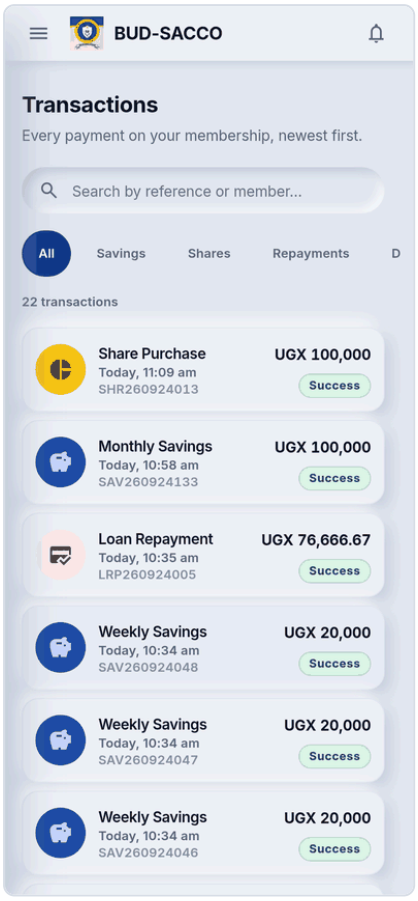

Checking that a repayment was recorded

1. Open Transactions.
2. Look for an entry of type Loan Repayment on the date you paid.
3. Open it and check the amount, and the reference against your own receipt.

> If a repayment is missing
>
> Take your evidence — the SACCO receipt, or the mobile-money confirmation message — to the office. Do not pay again. Staff will find the money by its reference and record it, and the entry will appear on your account with the date you actually paid.

10. Transactions and statements

Every payment recorded against your account is here, permanently, with its own reference number.

Screenshot 18. The Transactions list.

Screenshot 19. One transaction opened: the full receipt.

Reading the list

Each line shows the type of transaction, the date and time, the reference and the amount. Money coming in is shown in green; money going out in red.

Reference begins with	What it is
SAV	Savings
SHR	Share purchase
LRP	Loan repayment
LDS	Loan disbursement — money paid out to you
RCT	Receipt
DEP / WDL	Deposit / withdrawal
FEE	A fee

Reference begins with	What it is
REV	A reversal — an earlier entry being corrected

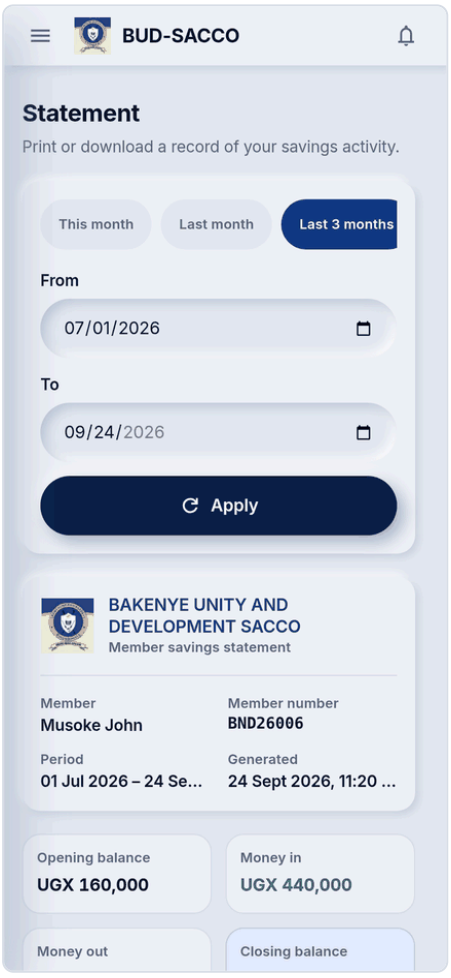

What a status means

Status	What it means
Success	Recorded and counted in your balance.
Reversed	The entry was cancelled by SACCO staff, with a reason. It stays on your record for good, alongside the correcting entry, so that the history is complete.

> Reversed entries never disappear
>
> If a payment was recorded against the wrong member and then corrected, you will see both the original and the reversal. That is deliberate — a record that can be quietly deleted is a record nobody can trust.

Your statement

Open More → Statements.

Screenshot 20. The Statements screen.

A statement covers a period you choose and shows an opening balance, every entry in between, and a closing balance.

Saving it as a PDF, or printing it

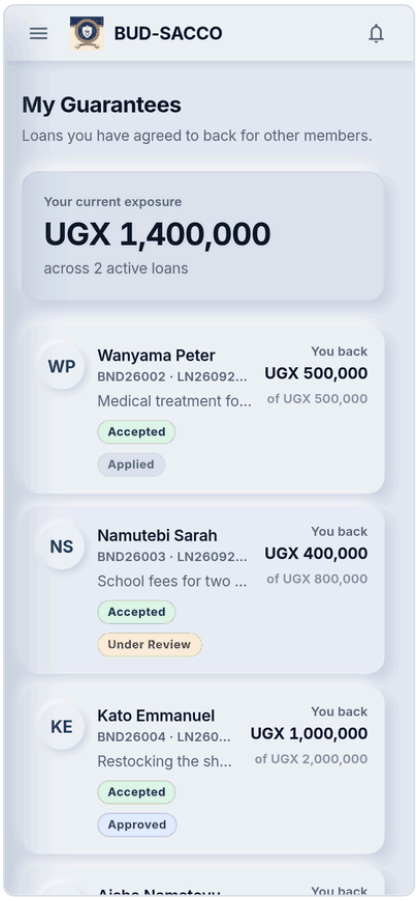

1. Open the statement.
2. Press Download PDF (or use your browser's own print option).
3. Choose Save as PDF as the destination to keep a copy, or your printer to print it.

The saved document carries the SACCO's crest and full name, the period, the totals, the date it was produced and by whom — so it can be taken to a bank or kept for your records.

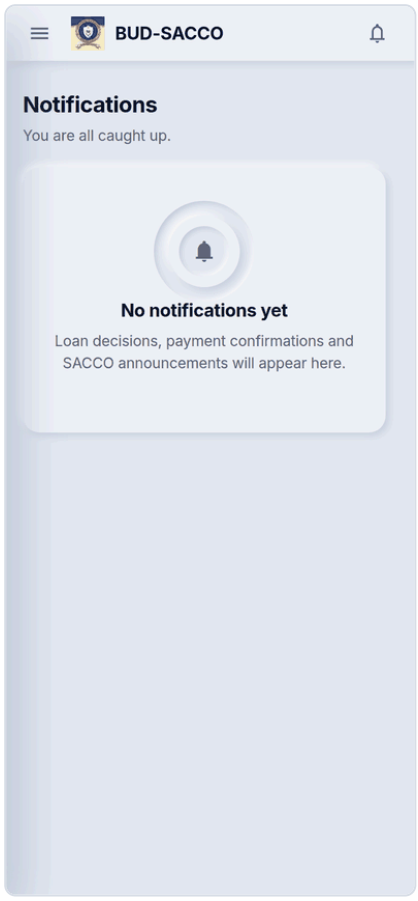

11. Guarantees and notifications

Guarantees

If you have agreed to stand as a guarantor for another member's loan, that obligation is yours, so the system shows it to you under More → Guarantees.

Screenshot 21. My Guarantees, from the example account of Nakabugo Christine: total exposure, then each loan she is backing, each naming its borrower.

Screenshot 22. Notifications.

The screen shows your total exposure — everything you have agreed to back — and then each loan: the borrower's name and member number, the loan number, the purpose, the amount you have guaranteed out of the total, and where the loan has got to. For a loan that has been paid out and is still being repaid, it also shows how much is still owed and when the next repayment falls due, so you can see your exposure falling as the borrower pays.

> What you are shown about the borrower, and what you are not
>
> Because you have agreed to back this loan, the screen names the borrower and gives their member number, together with how much of the loan is still owed and when the next repayment falls due. That is the whole of it. You cannot see their savings, their shares, their transactions, their telephone number or any other loan of theirs, and you can see nothing at all about a member whose loan you are not guaranteeing.

> Standing as a guarantor is a real commitment
>
> If the borrower does not repay, the SACCO may look to the guarantors. Be sure you understand what you are agreeing to before you accept — and ask SACCO staff if you are unsure.

Notifications

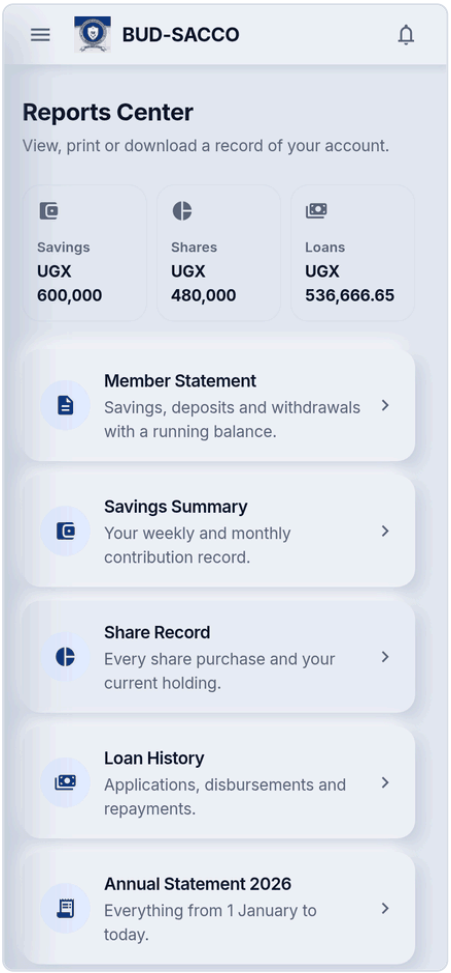

The bell at the top of every screen, and More → Notifications, hold messages the system has sent you — for example, the decision on a loan application.

A number on the bell is the count of messages you have not opened. Tap a message to read it; it is then marked as read.

> Notifications are not a receipt
>
> Your record of a payment is the entry under Transactions, not a message. If you expected a notification and it has not arrived, check Transactions first, and then ask at the office.

Reports

More → Reports gathers the printable summaries of your own record in one place.

Screenshot 23. The member Reports screen.

12. Keeping your account safe

The system protects your record. Only you can protect your password.

Do this	Why
Keep your password to yourself.	Anyone who has it can see everything about your money. No member of SACCO staff will ever ask you for it — and none of them can see it.
Never sign in for somebody else, and never let somebody sign in for you.	If a payment goes wrong, the SACCO needs to know who was looking at what.
Sign out on a borrowed phone or a café computer.	Closing the browser is not signing out.
Lock your own phone with a PIN or a fingerprint.	A phone that anybody can pick up and open is a login anybody can use.
Check your transactions from time to time.	You are the person most likely to notice that one of your payments is missing.
Report anything strange straight away.	An entry you do not recognise, or a balance you cannot explain, should be raised with SACCO staff the same day.
Change your password if you suspect anybody knows it.	You can do it yourself, immediately, from More → Password & Security.

What the system does on its own

It pauses sign-in for a while after several failed attempts, it signs you out after a period of inactivity, and it keeps a record of every sign-in. It does not, and cannot, stop somebody who genuinely knows your password.

Beware of anybody asking for your password

If somebody telephones or messages you claiming to be from the SACCO and asks for your password or a code, it is not the SACCO. End the conversation and tell the office.

13. Common problems and what to do

Problem	Likely cause	What to do
I cannot sign in.	A typing mistake, or the wrong number.	Check the member number or phone number and the password. Try Forgot Password? If that does not help, visit the office with your National ID.
It says I have tried too many times.	Sign-in is paused for a few minutes after repeated failures.	Wait for the number of minutes shown, then try once, carefully.
It says my account is suspended or unavailable.	A change to your membership status.	Speak to SACCO administration. This is not something the system can undo.
A payment I made is not on my account.	It has not been recorded yet, or it could not be matched to you.	Check Transactions first. Then take the mobile-money or bank confirmation message to the office. Do not pay again.
My balance looks wrong.	A payment missing, or an entry recorded against the wrong member.	Open Transactions and work through it against your own receipts, then bring the ones that do not match to the office.
A transaction says Reversed.	Staff corrected an earlier entry.	Look for the correcting entry near it. If you cannot see why, ask at the office — every reversal has a recorded reason.
The page will not load, or is very slow.	The internet connection.	Check your data or Wi-Fi and reload. Try again in a few minutes.
The screen looks broken or out of date.	An old copy held by your browser.	Close the browser tab and open the address again.
I have forgotten my password.	—	Use Forgot Password? if the SACCO holds your email. Otherwise visit the office with your National ID.
My name or phone number is wrong.	The SACCO record needs correcting.	Visit the office with your National ID. Members cannot change these themselves.
I want to save a different amount each month.	You already may — savings are open.	Save whatever suits you, whenever you like. There is nothing to arrange and no target to change.

14. Frequently asked questions

How do I sign in?

Open the SACCO web address, type your member number or phone number and your password, and press Sign In. See Section 3.

I have never signed in before. What do I do?

Go to the SACCO office with your National ID and ask for a login. You will be given a temporary password, and the system will ask you to choose your own the first time you use it.

How do I check my savings?

Tap the Savings tab.

How much do I have to save each month?

Whatever you choose. Monthly savings are open: there is no target, no saver category and no minimum you are held to. Save UGX 5,000 one month and UGX 73,500 the next if that is what suits you, and save more than once in a month if you wish — the deposits simply add up.

What happens if I save nothing in a month?

Nothing. A month you do not save in is not a debt. No arrears are raised against you, no overdue amount appears anywhere and no penalty is charged.

What does a share cost, and how many may I buy?

One share costs UGX 10,000, and you may buy any whole number of them — there is no category and no limit. Five shares are UGX 50,000, twenty are UGX 200,000, a hundred are UGX 1,000,000.

What does it cost to join?

The registration fee is UGX 20,000, paid once when you join.

How do I check my loan balance?

Tap the Loans tab, then the loan. The outstanding balance includes interest.

Can I change my password myself?

Yes — More → Password & Security. You need your current password.

Can I record a payment myself?

No. The system cannot see money arriving, so only a member of staff can record a payment. The Save Money, Buy Shares and Repay Loan screens show you how to pay and give you the reference to quote.

I paid by mobile money. Why has my balance not changed?

Because the payment has not been recorded yet. A member of staff matches mobile-money payments against the SACCO's merchant account and records them. If it has still not appeared after a day or two, bring your confirmation message to the office.

Can I see another member's account?

No. You can see only your own records, plus the loans you have agreed to guarantee — and for those, only the borrower's name and member number, the amount, how much is still owed and the loan's status. Not their savings, not their shares, not their other loans, and nothing at all about a member whose loan you are not guaranteeing.

Can I get a statement for my bank?

Yes — More → Statements. Choose the period and save it as a PDF or print it. It carries the SACCO's letterhead.

What does Reversed mean on a transaction?

Staff cancelled that entry and recorded a correcting one. Both stay on your record, with the reason.

Who do I contact if something is wrong?

SACCO staff at the office. Take your National ID and any receipts or confirmation messages.

Does it cost anything to use?

The SACCO does not charge for the portal. Your mobile operator may charge for the data you use, which is small — the pages were built to be light.

Getting help

For anything to do with your membership, your money or your login, the first place to go is the SACCO office, with your National ID and any receipts. Staff there can see your full record and correct what needs correcting.

> Contact details
>
> The telephone numbers, email address and opening hours of the SACCO office are not printed in this guide, because they are not part of the system and could change. Ask at the office for the current details, or read them from the notice board. The SACCO may add them to this page when the guide is next issued.

Words you will see

Word	What it means here
Member number	Your permanent SACCO number, such as BND26006. It never changes.
Reference	The code on a transaction, such as SAV260924133. Quote it when asking about a payment.
Open savings	The SACCO's rule that you save any amount you choose, as often as you choose, with no monthly target.
Share price	What one share costs. It is the same for every member: UGX 10,000.
Schedule / cycle	One week or one month of expected savings.
Outstanding	What is still to be paid.
Arrears	Money that was due and has not been paid.
Disbursement	The moment a loan is handed over to you.
Guarantor	A member who agrees to stand for somebody else's loan.
Reversal	A correcting entry that cancels an earlier one. Both stay on the record.
Temporary password	A one-time password issued by the office, which you must replace at your first sign-in.
